Plus subscribers can use medical e-consultations offered by telemedi.co

by jk

The operator of Plus mobile network (a Cyfrowy Polsat Group company) has offered to its postpaid subscribers the possibility of using an unlimited offer of e-consultations with a general practitioner or a pediatrician. The offer has been created in cooperation with Telemedi.co.

In return for a monthly flat fee of PLN 15.99 (incl. VAT) customers can enjoy medical consultations via an Internet chat, during a video call or a phone call, round-the-clock on all days of the week. Doctors collect the full medical history of a patient during a call, interpret the results of laboratory tests and imaging examinations, issue recommendation regarding further medical treatment which are available for viewing and printing from an Individual Patient Account (Indywidualne Konto Pacjenta). Based on the outcome of a consultation, a doctor may issue an e-prescription, a medical examination referral, or a sick leave.

As the operator has stressed, it wishes to offer access to remote medical care to millions of Poles (which is all so important in the times of the coronavirus).

Huge investments in data processing

by Katarzyna Kucharczyk

According to the forecasts published by PMR research firm, Polish market of data centers will double in the years 2020-2025.

The investments in this segment are planned by such companies as ATM, Equinix, Netia (a Cyfrowy Polsat Group company) and T-Mobile. Also global players, Google Cloud and Microsoft, have announced their plans to enter the Polish market.

As a result of the coronavirus pandemics, part of the activity has moved to the Internet and according to analysts the change could be a lasting one, which is connected with growth of popularity of remote work and higher demand for e-services.

Three weeks into the process of Polish economy “defrosting,” data traffic stabilized at a level which 30% higher than before the pandemics.

The expected growth of popularity of e-services will in turn drive growth of popularity of IT outsourcing.
